CANDIDATES URGE LOYALTY TO PARTY AT G. O. P. RALLY

State and County Leaders
Tour Lake County
Friday

Plans for loyalty to the G. O. P. at the forthcoming November election were made by state, district, and county candidates at a mass meeting held at the court house in Waukegan Friday night. The meeting climaxed an all-day tour of Lake county towns by a large delegation of candidates and political leaders.

Congressman Carl R. Chidholm, Attorney General Oscar Carleton, Col. Frank L. Smith of Dwight candidate for congressman-at-large, were the guests of the county from the state and district ticket.

Attorney Benjamin Miller of Libertyville presided at the meeting and addressed the candidates on the county ticket, Attorney Ralph J. Dady, for circuit judge; W. C. Petty, for county superintendent of schools; Chief of Police Lester Tiffany, for sheriff, and Probate Judge Martin C. Decker, County Judge P. L. Parsons, County Clerk, Lew A. Hendon, County Treasurer Jay B. Morse, Probate Clerk John R. Bullock and Representatives Lee McDonough and Richard J. Lyness.

Congressman Chidholm, in his address, pointed to the achievements of the Republican party, adding that Republicans were returned to power to rehabilitate the country after the terms of Grover Cleveland and Woodrow Wilson.

Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick will be elected to the United States senate by a large majority at the election Nov. 4, according to Attorney General Carleton.

Auction Bridge Expert on Antioch News Staff

Through arrangements completed with Wynne Ferguson, widely known bridge teacher, lecturer, and writer the Antioch News is able to offer a series of thirty-six articles on bridge. These articles will be released weekly under the heading of "Easy Lessons in Auction Bridge." This feature will appear exclusively in this territory in the Antioch News.

More bridge is being played than ever before and in order to master the greatest of all games it is necessary to learn the bidding and play properly, and it is essential that a recognized authority be followed. If you are a beginner the lessons will prove a great help and if you are already familiar with the bridge the problems and solutions will afford much wholesome entertainment and recreation.

Don't miss an issue of the Antioch News. The first lesson will be released October 30.

"Main Street Crusader" to Speak Here Tonight

W. H. Caslow, of Grand Rapids, Michigan, better known to radio audiences as "The Main Street Crusader," will be the principal speaker tonight at the high school where a mass meeting is being held under auspices of the Antioch Division of the Community Builders of Lake county.

The meeting is scheduled to begin at 8:00 o'clock and every one is welcome to attend.

STRATTON TURNS EARNINGS OVER TO STATE TREASURY

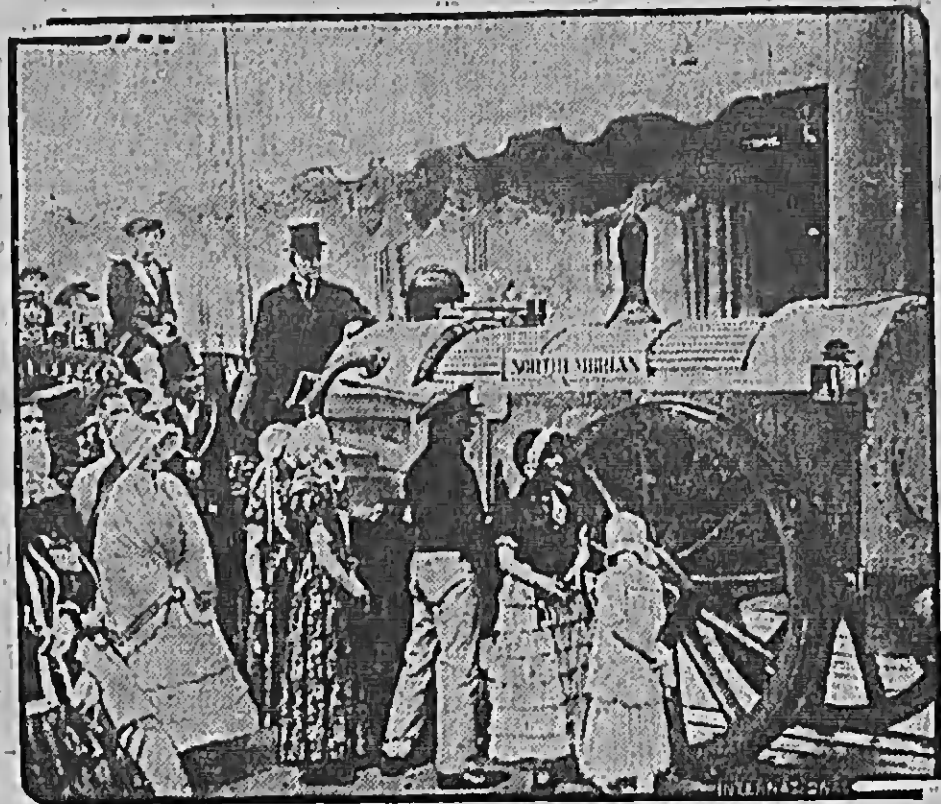

Announcement is made by William J. Stratton, Secretary of State, that $3,475.22 has been earned on the monies collected during the quarter beginning July 1, and ending September 30, 1930.

This amount was paid into the State Treasury October 8, 1930, with an itemized statement showing the amount of interest earned during the quarterly period on each account in each bank.

"AUNT LUCIA" TO BE STAGED BY CAST OF 100 LOCAL PEOPLE

Famous Collegiate Comedy
Will Be Presented Thursday and Friday

BUSINESS MEN IN FLAPPER CHORUS

"Aunt Lucia, a burlesque comedy of college life, will be presented next Thursday and Friday nights at the Antioch Township high school, under the auspices of the Epworth League of the Methodist church. The play, which has been a tremendous success wherever played throughout the middlewest, includes a cast of 100 local people.

The show is a story of a homecoming at Bula Bula college and is collegiate in every way. Besides the play there are to be a number of special features.

The play proper deals with the story of the home coming of Bula Bula college. The setting of the show is a fraternity drawing room. The whole story revolves around the school anxiously awaiting the arrival of an old maid, Aunt Lucia Wakefield, who is worth fifty million dollars and who plans to give the college a large sum of money. She is to be honored guest at the home coming of Bula Bula college and is an aunt to one of the girls, Betty. Jerry Watson, played by Gerald Reed, one of the college boys, with the help of his two roommates, George and Dick, played by Bill Nelson and Edmond Jeffers, dresses himself as an old lady, for the entertainment of his fellow fraternity brothers. While dressed in this outfit he was mistaken by Prof. Gaddis, played by John Moore and Dean Howard, played by Mrs. H. B. Gaston as the real Lucia Wakefield from Florida, and they immediately introduce him to the College President and everyone as such. Once in this dilemma, it was impossible for him to explain without getting in bad, and so he is carried on throughout the story masquerading as Lucia Wakefield, when in reality he is only Jerry Watson.

Around this character playing the part of the fake Aunt Lucia, all the fun and comical situations of the play developed. Prof. Gaddis and Mr. Collos, played by Rev. Philip Bohl and the Butler and Egg Man, played by Otto Kläas, all fall in love with this fake Lucia Wakefield and try to marry her. Their proposal

New World's Record Is Set by Pregenzer In National Boat Races

Ray Pregenzer, Jr., set a new world's record in the national championship outboard motor boat races held at Middleton, Conn., Saturday and Monday, when his boat averaged 46.035 miles per hour. He was entered in the Class F. division for professionals.

On Saturday he took first place in Class F. Division 2, with an average speed of 45.91 miles thus winning his way into the finals on Monday. Pregenzer not only wins personal fame but brings honor to the middle west, as he is the only contestant from this section to win a championship, the East boasting most champions.

PARENT-TEACHERS' CONVENTION HELD AT LIBERTYVILLE

The 1930 convention of the District P. T. A. association was held at the Methodist church at Libertyville Friday. The meeting was conducted by the district president, Mrs. O. R. Asperkre, of Evanston. The principal speaker was Mrs. Bird Smith of the Northwestern University, who discussed the influence of environment upon the school child. Other speakers were Mr. Underbrink, principal of the Libertyville high school, and Mr. Hudson, who talked on the work of the grade schools. About 300 attended, including 30 school principals and 40 P. T. A. presidents. Special discussions were held for the various groups of officers. Those attending from Channel Lake were Mrs. Warren Robinson, Mrs. Paul Chase, Mrs. Chas. McCorkle, Mrs. Homer Winch, and Mrs. Geo. Doanford.

scenes are flowery, insistent and very funny. Instantly Jerry finds himself playing the part of the old lady, and many complications arise—but see the play!

Besides these characters, there are two college girls, friends of George and Dick, Betty and Molly, played by Mrs. Dardenne and Fannie Westlake; Jerry's girl, Ethelyn Wycoff is Cornelia Roberts. Also, there is the College President, Dr. Seamore, played by S. E. Pollock and Mrs. Seamore, played by Mrs. S. B. Nelson, who all add to the dignity of the cast. The two freshman, comedy parts, played by Gordon Martin and Bob King, are also very good.

Besides the play proper, there are a number of special features in the show, the College Glee club, portrayed by eighteen business men open the show and give a lot of entertainment. The famous flapper chorus of the Sig-Sig-A-Rette Sorority is one of the high spots of the show. The flapper chorus consists of twenty-eight business men who portrayed famous college girls, types such as Teacher's Pot, The Sorority President, Spinster School Teacher, Cleopatra, etc.

The opening of the show is featured by a curtain raiser, the big Baby Pageant with over one hundred children between the ages of five and seven. The special dramatic reader, Mrs. Philip T. Bohl, gives the readings and the children furnish a very effective background. The Baby Pageant is something new in entertainment and exceptionally good. Another feature of the show is twenty-five high school girls in costume choruses and special song numbers. All in all "Aunt Lucia" is a well rounded out production.

Great Lakes to Be Open to Visitors Navy Day, Oct. 27

The U. S. Navy Training Station, Great Lakes, Ill., will be open to visitors Monday, October 27, Navy Day, according to announcement by Captain D. W. Bagley, Chief of Staff. October 27 has been designated as Navy Day by the Navy League of the United States. The day is also the birthday of the late President Theodore Roosevelt.

The station will be open to visitors from 9:00 a. m. to 5:00 p. m. Three dress parades will be held on the main parade grounds during the day, at 11:00 a. m., and at 2:30 and 4:30 p. m.

The Commandant cordially invites the citizens of this vicinity to visit the station on this day, and he particularly invites the school children at Lake county and vicinity.

AUTOMOBILE PLATES AVAILABLE AFTER NOV. 1, STRATTON SAYS

Secretary Urges Care in Making Out Application for License

Application forms for 1931 Automobile Licenses will be available after November 1st, according to an announcement today from William J. Stratton, Secretary of State.

Secretary Stratton points out that extraordinary care should be taken in executing these applications both for passenger cars and trucks—as the registration fee for passenger cars is based upon the Horse Power and the fee for trucks upon the combined weight of the truck and load.

The Secretary further calls attention to the fact that a complete schedule of fees necessary are printed upon the reverse side of the application forms, and if there is any doubt in the mind of the applicant regarding the fees, these schedules should be consulted.

Every year, thousands upon thousands of applications are returned to the applicants because of incorrect fees, and improperly executed applications, therefore, it is urged by the Secretary that every application for motor vehicle license carefully check the application and fee before forwarding same to the office.

Hundreds of license plates are returned to the Secretary monthly because of incorrect or incomplete addresses furnished by the applicant, and in the great majority of these instances immediate delivery could be made if the applicant had exercised due care in filling the application. The tremendous amount of additional work required to secure correct addresses in order that the applicant may eventually receive the plates assigned, naturally results in a slowing down of the issuance of license plates and defeats the efforts of the Department in giving speedy service.

The Secretary particularly requests Notaries Public, Garage owners, Automobile clubs, and every person who aids or assists anyone in making application for license that they carefully check every item involved before the application is forwarded.

Every application should either be typewritten or the name and address carefully printed, as co-operation of the public on this particular point will hold carelessness to the minimum.

It is therefore hoped that the complete co-operation of the general public in every matter pertaining to the issuance of 1931 automobile license plates will be given, to the end that all unnecessary errors will be eliminated and service maintained at a maximum of efficiency.

NEW PROJECT TO BE EXPLAINED TO LAKE COUNTY WOMEN FRI.

Home Bureau work will be explained thoroughly by Mrs. Kathryn Van Aken Burns on Friday afternoon, Oct. 17, at Community hall at Graylake. Mrs. Burns is from the Home Economics Department of the University of Illinois, and is fully acquainted with her subject. Everyone interested in this new project, whether rural or town women, are urged to attend. The meeting will begin at 1:30 p. m.

FIRE DEPARTMENT OFFICERS RE-ELECTED

Much Property Saved by Swift, Efficient Work of Members

The present officers of the Antioch Volunteer Fire Department were re-elected at a meeting held at the fire station Tuesday night. Frank D. Hoher is president, John L. Horan, secretary, George Garland, treasurer, and James Stearns was appointed chief by the village board. No change in the personnel of the department is contemplated, the present members proving entirely satisfactory. Secretary Horan's report was approved.

The official range of the Department is a radius of six miles, but many calls are answered beyond that distance. 33 calls were answered last year, most of which were outside of Antioch, and flames on $193,000 worth of property were fought. The total fire loss was slightly over $114,000 and this could have been largely avoided if water had been available at the scene of the fire. The department responded to calls for 12 grass fires, caused by carelessness.

Very little fire damage was suffered in Antioch during the past year.

FIREMEN TO GIVE ARMISTICE DANCE

The thirteenth annual Armistice dance will be given on Tuesday night, November 11, by the Antioch Volunteer Fire department. It was announced by members of the department today. George Garland, Clarence Shultz and Frank Powles have been appointed as the committee in charge of arrangements.

Works in a Triple Role

A triple role is being played by George Atkeson, star guard of the University of Kansas football team. George is a regularly enrolled student in the morning. In the afternoon he dons his grid uniform and at night he changes into the uniform of night chief of police of the city of Lawrence. Working nights affords him a way of earning money and preparing his next day's lesson. He is shown here in a characteristic football pose.

Winners Are Announced;
Poultry Show Largest
in Chicago Area

Antioch's first country fair, which was combined with the seventh annual poultry exhibition, closed Saturday night with a record attendance of approximately 8,000 for the three days, and the show was pronounced the best community fair ever held in Lake county, and probably overshadowed any like exhibition ever held in the entire Chicago metropolitan area.

Ideal weather, entertainment entirely wholesome, and the exhibits an educational feature with themselves combined to make the exhibition one of real pleasure and profit, and served to mark the progress of a community thoroughly alive in all lines of endeavor. Thousands of people spent many hours looking over the large displays of entries in the various departments.

Poultry Show the Greatest
The poultry display was the largest ever held here, surpassing the record made in 1923 by almost a hundred entries. In the poultry and pet stock department 730 specimens were exhibited.

"I have never seen anything like this in any community fair, and the exhibits in many lines compare favorably with those seen at the state fair," was the comment of Fred Petty, of the Illinois Farmers Weekly after he viewed the various departments here Friday.

Burke Wins Again
Louie Burke winner of last year's special on the best male of the show, again won with the same Partridge Plymouth Rock bird that he showed last year. Louie Burke is from Antioch and as a consideration of the severe competition which he had to face this year, he was presented with the $5.00 special prize given by Secretary of State Wm. Stratton.

The best female bird was exhibited by Bert Edwards of Antioch. The best pen of birds was shown by Harry Tillotson of Antioch. James Wilhelm and C. B. Combs of Sandwich, Illinois, showed the best male and female rabbits of the fair.

To Present Oil Paintings
J. S. Cleveland of Lake Villa, an artist of considerable note is to present Mr. Wilhelm and Mr. Combs with an oil painting each of their rabbits that won specials at the fair. Mr. Cleveland spent considerable time Saturday making preliminary sketches of the two animals.

Women's Dept. Has Excellent Display
Mrs. C. Crowley, Mrs. Carl Hughes, and Mrs. F. Hackett, Superintendents of the three divisions in the Domestic and Fine Arts departments were swamped with a record entry that kept both the superintendents and the assistants busy every minute during the three days. It is hoped that departments will be re-arranged to in another year, the entries in these conform to more modern vogues, and thereby simplifying the work connected with the superintendency of those departments.

Fine Arts Attract Thousands
The visitors at the fair were surprised at the wonderful exhibit of paintings. Thousands of people spent hours before the art display studying the work of local artists and commenting on the various works of art. Barney Neveler of Antioch, reigned supreme in oil paintings of animals, and Georgia Van Patten of Chicago won the most of the prizes on figures in oil.

Farm Display Wonderful
The farm crops, fruits, and vegetables display attracted the attention of not only the producers but many of the urban people as well. Many people from Chicago remarked that no better display was ever seen in the best fruit and vegetable markets of the city.

THIRTY-SIX THOUSAND LIVES

The United States is on its way toward establishing a new high record for deaths due to the automobile, according to a well-known authority. It is forecast that at the end of 1930 the total of casualties will be 30,000—several thousand more than were killed last year, when the present tragic record was established.

Recklessness and carelessness are still the modern "rules of the road." Hundreds of thousands of incompetents are allowed full use of the public highways.

This last factor—that of incompetence—is probably for our gigantic record of fatalities. Only a few states have laws requiring strict examination of applicants for drivers' licenses. Fortunately, there is a trend toward such laws throughout the nation and when every state has and enforces them at least partial success in accident prevention will be achieved.

Another crying need, in most states, is for modernization and revision of traffic ordinances. Up-to-date, enforceable codes that would be supported by the public are essential to highway safety.

We have no more serious problem than that of automobile accident prevention. It affects every citizen and is a vital element in the life of every community.

A UNIQUE OFFICIAL

Some sort of a medal should be struck off for R. A. Doughton, chairman of the North Carolina Highway Commission. Mr. Doughton has announced that the commission is opposed to the proposed one-cent increase in the gasoline tax. The state now has a five-cent tax which the commission finds is sufficient to meet the needs of the highway patrol.

Highway commissioners who don't have a hand out for more of the motorist's money to spend are few and far between.

OLD PAPERS OF 1900 PROVE INTERESTING

Pre-War Publishing Styles
Typified in Collection of
W. R. Williams

In England, you know, advertising is still placed on the first page, and the news scattered throughout the middle section and back page. It seems peculiar to Americans today, yet twenty and thirty years ago that very thing was seen in an Antioch paper, and it was perfectly proper, then.

Do you wonder what the advertising was like, then, too? We are fortunate to have been able to secure several of these old papers from W. R. Williams, whose advertising figures prominently on the front page of the four page Antioch Advertiser, a semi-weekly, on April 30, 1907. This paper was edited and published by M. J. Weber.

Ornate borders graced the larger ads, but the little ones were properly punished—the borders were omitted. In this interesting paper, there were five want ads, one of them reading, WANTED—500 persons to subscribe to the Advertiser. Not so bad!

An account was also published in this same paper of the marriage of Ira M. Simons to Miss Margaret A. Moran. It is headed "An April Wedding" with a subhead "Prominent Antioch Couple are United in Marriage by Rev. McNamer." After a description of the wedding, the article ends thus, "The Advertiser joins in with their many friends in wishing them a long and happy journey through life."

Remember when harness shops were a vital necessity in every village? And there was even enough competition to warrant John Bregan advertising his harness and leather goods on that same front page. And guess what next? There is William Keulman's name under an advertisement for talking machines. Another name still prominent today is that of T. A. Somerville, whose ad appears on the back page.

Turning the page, gentle women readers might begin their sighing over the tale, "The House of a 1000 Candles." Their attention was caught by a corner entitled, "Onr Pattern Department" in which a wasp-waisted young lady posed for dress-makers.

In an April paper of 1906, published by A. B. Johnson, a very interesting report is given of the deposition of J. A. Dowle from Zion City.

Among Mr. Williams' collection of old papers are the Lake County Independent, edited and published at Libertyville in 1900; the Waukegan Weekly Sun, and the Grayslake Times.

And now you hunters of curios and whatnot! Here is a magazine section, copyrighted in 1903, by W. R. Hearst, with Great Britain rights reserved. Here is the heading on the first page: "Distinguished American visitors in Paris Learning the New Science of Automobileing from Fournier, The Great French Expert, At Illa Famous School." Herein lies the secret of learning to operate an automobile.

The second and third sheets are devoted to exclaiming over the new discovery of radium, which was the "Newest, Greatest, Most Mysterious Force in Nature Just Discovered and Utterly Beyond the Power of Science to Understand or Explain."

The back page features the Romance of a "5 and 10 cent store", in which Mrs. Woolworth narrates her marital unhappiness. The lower part of the sheet is headed, "How Your Ears Tell How Long You Will Live," with the various types of ears pictured.

TIMELY TOPICS BY ANTIOCH PEOPLE

By PHILIP T. BOHI
"RICH, AND YET POOR"

The world in which we live seems to give us a rather narrow conception of the meaning of the term "riches." The ordinary idea which prevails concerning being rich means simply to possess sufficient wealth that we may live in ease and luxury without any worry as to "a rainy day," so to speak. Also that when one is rich he has it within his power to buy anything he may desire. This has been the idea held by many in their mad rush and search for the riches of this world only to find that the satisfaction they were seeking was not found in the possession they had gained.

It may be true that the riches of this world may buy many things which may be desirable, but it is equally true that there are many more things desirable which riches cannot buy. It is infrequently the case that those who possess great riches do not have some of the things most desirable in life because they cannot be bought and sold.

Riches cannot buy a well body or health. There are few things in this life more desirable than health, freedom from physical pain and suffering. Few if any of us fully appreciate the contribution which medical science has made to our happiness and general welfare. Scientific treatment and prevention of disease has not only lengthened the average span of life, but has likewise removed much of the agonies of physical sufferings which at one time accompanied numerous diseases. But riches cannot buy health. The best skill known by medical science is now at the disposal of the poor as well as the rich.

Riches cannot buy true friends. The so-called friends of the wealthy class are in many cases friendly only so long as the wealth lasts. This was true of the prodigal son as described in the New Testament. As long as his wealth lasted he had friends, but when he lost it he lost his friends also. He who is our friend because of what we are and not for what we possess is a true friend. True friendship is not based upon what one can GET out of being a friend to someone, but is based upon GIVING. The so-called friends of the rich may be friends only because of what they get out of their friendship with them.

Riches cannot buy a conscience void of offense. No physician can heal a hurting conscience. Is there anything that can bring greater discomfort than an eternal awareness that we have taken advantage of, or wronged someone? Happy is the man who is at peace with all other men and who has an untroubled conscience.

If we possess this world's riches but do not and cannot have health and our body free from disease and pain, then we are poor indeed. If we are rich and have friends who care not for us, but for what we have, we are likewise poor. To have riches and a smiting conscience because of our riches would be worse than having no riches at all. These things any many others are, after all, better than gold. Many of this world's treasure hunters do not bring the satisfaction which they appear to bring. Yet there is the temptation to make an effort to get them regardless of everything, but, alas! when they are in our possession we find them to be moth-eaten, and rust, and ashes. Jesus, the great teacher, once said, "Lay not up for yourself treasures here upon earth, where moth and rust doth corrupt and where thieves break through and steal", and that is exactly what happens to much of this world's riches. We may possess them and yet be in want for the better things.

Scout News

Scout Council Elects Officers

At the regular meeting of the Lake County Council, Boy Scouts of America, held last week at the Lake County court house, officers for the new year were elected as follows:

President, Joseph G. Raynalk, Waukegan; first vice-president, Dr. F. A. Besley, Waukegan; second vice-president, Walter B. Durkin, Waukegan; third vice-president, John P. Kotkamp, Waukegan; treasurer, O. Henkem, Waukegan; commissar, Otto R. Thompson, Waukegan; chairman finance committee, Alvin L. Brumund, Waukegan; court of honor, Perry L. Persons, Waukegan; publicity, Walter C. Gaede, Waukegan, R. B. Dixon, Gurnee.

Executive Board

The above officers and committee chairmen, along with the following named members of the Scout Council, will comprise the Executive Board: George W. Burchard, Lake Bluff; Gerard Fossland, Winthrop Harbor; D. R. Manzer, Lake Villa; George P. Flood, Grayslake; Thomas J. Killian and Raymond L. Newenham, North Chicago; and Alex F. Beauble, Jolin S. Clark, George A. Byl, Theodore Blech, Julian G. Hart, Everett A. Judd, Meard E. Helse, William I. Lyon, Garrett Wilson, and Charles D. Ferry, Waukegan.

The new board held its first meeting at the Waukegan Hotel on Tuesday evening of this week. The board meets regularly every month, excepting July and August, and acts for the council on all matters pertaining to administration of the Scouting Program. The direction of the Scouting Program itself is left to the individual troops and the Scout Executive of the Council, who is selected by the Executive Board.

The Antioch members will be added to the Executive Board after the Antioch citizens holding charter for a troop of Scouts have their fall meeting and elect a representative.

Scout Leaders Training Begins

The first sessions of the fall courses for the training of Scout Troop Leaders were held Monday evening at the First Baptist church at Waukegan. A total of thirty men were enrolled, the largest number taking Scout Leaders Training at one time since the organization of Scouting in Waukegan and the communities adjacent to it.

Those taking the courses are organized into patrols and a regular scout troop, with officers for patrols and troop.

Five patrols were organized at the gathering Monday night, two patrols taking the Approved Course for Leaders and three patrols pursuing the Minimum Training for troop officers.

Scout Troop Enrollment High
Enrollment of Scouts in troops of the Lake County Council, Boy Scouts of America, reached a new high mark for the quarter year ending September 30, 1930, according to figures announced by local scout headquarters in the County court house.

The roster of troops and distribution of advancement near Antioch is as follows:

Troop 77, Community Church, Gurnee, Tenderfoot, 8; S. C., 10; F. C., 12; total, 30.

Troop 81, Antioch Community, Antioch, Tenderfoot, 13; S. C., 3; F. C., 1; total, 22.

Troop 84, M. E. Church, Lake Villa, Tenderfoot, 12; S. C., 1; F. C., 2; total, 15.

Troop 86, Grayslake Community, Grayslake, Tenderfoot, 11; S. C., 0; F. C., 0; total, 11.

FOR COMFORT YOU WANT whatever the weather . . . burn WAUKEGAN KOPPERS COKE

Naturally you want your home to be comfortable . . . always. Whether the outside temperature is high or low . . . varying constantly from hour to hour and day to day . . . uniform heat must be maintained in your home if comfort is to prevail. To preserve this treasured comfort, you need a fuel that can be regulated easily . . . one that will not go out when checked . . . and that will burst into a full, hot flame when the draft is opened.

WAUKEGAN KOPPERS COKE is such a fuel. It responds immediately to regulation . . . keeping temperatures in your home uniform and at the degree you wish. Besides, it is clean . . . so it makes no soot, smoke or dust . . . and leaves no trace of black, greasy grime on walls, furniture, drapes and woodwork.

There is a size WAUKEGAN KOPPERS COKE for every heating plant. If you wish to know which size will burn most economically in your heating plant, ask your dealer to send a fuel expert, without obligation to you, to discover the size best suited to your requirements.

To those who have the knack of making cute little dresses or rompers for their youngsters, the present trend in children's clothing ought to prove a blessing. Perhaps as a reflection of the present economical depression, or for some more obscure reason, the less expensive materials are again in favor. Cotton foundations produce some very smart frocks for the little ones.

A practical school dress for the lower-grade child is made of plaid gingham with a plique collar. Skirts and blouses are being worn more than ever this season, and two well-liked combinations are a brown velvet skirt with blouse of ecru broadcloth, or a velvet blouse and a plaid cotton tweed skirt.

Broadcloths, in novelty stripes, candy stripes, or plain navy or yellow are much used for bloomersuits, and more particularly to combine with some other kind of goods.

Party frocks, too, are now of note, dotted swiss, velvets, organdies, batiste. It is so easy now to dress your little girl in light, fluffy, yet practical frocks, and little brother in adorable suits.

Some ladies say, "I'd like to have a little girl, just so I could dress her in cute clothes."

Smart Fur Sports Coat

The eccentric (if that word applies to a member of the fair sex—perhaps capricious would more nearly hit the mark) girl is quite definitely out. No longer can she combine gaudy purples, reds, greens, and yellows, and create a sensation which is complimentary to her taste in choosing her wardrobe. It is the miss who gives undivided attention to the harmonizing effects and details of her costumes and ensembles, who receives the admiration and homage for a thousand more reasons than that, but there is a lot of pleasure in keeping your children looking attractive, so why not take advantage of your opportunity now, when materials are inexpensive?

3 tablespoons cornstarch
½ cup lemon juice
Beaten yolks of 2 eggs.

Cook all together until thick and allow to cool before putting into a previously baked and cooled crust. Top with beaten and sweetened egg whites and brown in oven.

Mrs. Denman Gives Bread Recipes

The art of baking bread may be a lost one for some women—discarded and thought of no more—but not for Mrs. Margaret Deaman, of Millburn, who was awarded first prize on her white and health bread.

White Bread

1 quart milk
1 pint potato water
4 tablespoons sugar
4 teaspoons salt
4 tablespoons lard or other shortening

2 compressed yeast cakes
Flour to make stiff loaf.
Save 1 pint of water drained from potatoes after boiling.

Next morning dissolve 2 compressed yeast cakes in ½ cup lukewarm water. Heat milk and potato water until hot (do not boil) and dissolve shortening in this. When mixture is cool add other ingredients and add flour enough to make a soft sponge, cover and let rise until light, then mix enough flour in to make a stiff loaf and knead well, cover well and let rise twice its size. Put in four loaves and let rise again until twice their size. Put in hot oven and

"Where to Get Off at"

Never too old to learn, are we? They say that you can't teach an old dog new tricks, which is quite true, but housewives are not dogs. Are you willing to set aside your favorite method of washing and shining windows to give a new way a trial? Soothing the old way, of course, with promise to return to ease the new way doesn't "pan out?"

House-cleaning time, a bug bear! All those windows, but listen! An Illinois woman recently discovered that mauling a cloth with the following solution, and wiping dry will make windows shine like a bald man's pate.

Mix one cup of turpentine, one cup of kerosene, one cup of vinegar, and three tablespoons of ammonia. Place this in a bottle and cork well. When ready to use, shake the bottle well and apply.

When you see your boy fussing and bake for 1 hour. Always keep in warm place while rising.

Health Brown Bread

2 cups graham
2 cups bran
2 cups white flour
2 cups sweet milk
1 cup molasses
½ cup sugar
1 cup raisins
2 teaspoons soda dissolved in ½ cup hot water
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 egg
½ teaspoon salt
Mix all dry ingredients together before adding liquids.
Bake in two loaves.

TOPPY'S TRAVELS

Synopsis: Toppo leaves his home to follow his canary, Lanny, who flies away. After an adventure with Mr. Frog, and with the Dewdrops he is sent to see the Queen. He is locked in a prison with the Queen and her maidens, by the Pillows, her enemies. The Queen makes him a General. He becomes hungry, slides down a moonbeam into a garden where he finds Mr. Frog and his friend, Toy, who feed him. They look up and behold an army of Pillows advancing. Continue—

As Toppo watched the army draw nearer, he wondered if he would die in battle. Then he would be a hero and be buried with a big parade of soldiers marching, and beating drums. How could the soldiers though, when he hadn't any army to parade? He wondered what Mommy and Nancy would think? Would brother Jackie miss him?

But he had not time to think further. He must fight now! The Pillows did not have swords; they had thistles, which pricked him and bruised and hurt him. He and Mr. Frog fought, until they were nearly exhausted. Pillows lay fallen on every side, but more and still more kept coming, and Toppo knew that he must soon be taken. If a miracle didn't happen, poor little Toy had been captured. Looking wildly around, he saw the Queen's son coming out of the Palace. One of the Pillows shouted, "Go back, go back! You must not be killed. The Queen's son must not be killed."

Some of them started toward him, to protect him. This gave Toppo an idea. Running faster than he ever had before in his short life, he reached the Queen's son before the Pillows, and screamed desperately, "Stop fighting this instant, or I will slay the Queen's son!"

A hush fell over the group, and they stood like statues. "Release Toy and Mr. Frog," Toppo ordered.

As they hesitated, he raised his sword, and his friends were immediately set free.

Toppo dragged the quaking son of the Queen underneath the window of the Cloud-Queen's beautiful prison, and called to her. "Oh, Cloud-Queen, it is now safe for you and your maidens to slide down the moonbeam."

The Cloud-Queen and her maidens were soon in the garden with Toppo and the Pillows. Her face, which had grown wintry with sorrow during the past few months, was transfigured with joy. Toppo was so dazzled by her radiance, that he could scarcely bear to look upon her.

She understood that she would regain her Royal Power, as long as the Pillow-Queen's son was in Toppo's control. Drawing herself up to her fullest height, she gazed scornfully over all the cowering Pillows, and said haughtily, "Take me to your Queen at once."

A moment after she had spoken, the Pillow-Queen came rushing madly out of the Palace. "Where is my son, where is my son?" she wailed. When she beheld her beloved son in the hands of the enemy, she turned whiter than the Cloud-Queen. "Oh, my son, my precious son, save him!" she called to her warriors.

"We have done all in our power, oh Queen," the commander answered her cries.

The Pillow-Queen knelt down before Toppo and the Cloud-Queen. "Spare my son, the heir to my kingdom, and we shall return your throne to you," she entreated.

The Cloud-Queen, having borne her burden of worries and fears for her people for months without complaining, could not feel any pity for her enemy now.

"How do I know that you will keep your promise?" she asked coldly. She turned to Toppo, "General Toppo, take that boy and imprison him, until I decide what to do."

She spoke again to the other Queen. "I will come with my advisers to morrow to this garden where I will meet you to discuss this problem." She walked rapidly away, following Toppo.

THE SUNBEAM IRON heats quickly and keeps an even temperature from tip to heel. It weighs six pounds and is finished in non-tarnishing chromeplate. An air-cooled handle prevents blistered hands. [A handy steel fireproof case for the iron is one dollar extra].

THE IRONING BOARD is light but very sturdy. When set up, the legs are locked so they cannot collapse. The ironing surface is 12 inches by 48 inches and there is a 30 inch "open end". A push of the thumb releases the lock spring and legs fold in. The entire board can hide in the broom closet or slide behind a door.

One dollar down will begin to pay for this handy combination the "Little by Little" way.

then all took part in singing "America" and "America, the Beautiful."

After a game with the high school freshmen, Tuesday afternoon, during which very few runs were piled up, the Grade school boys came out at the long end by a score of 3-2. They played the Lake Villa team last night.

Eld Sheen won the prize of one

COUPLE FROM LAKES ARE WEDDED SATURDAY

An exceptionally beautiful wedding was solemnized Saturday afternoon,
October 11th by Rev. Barnum, Supt. of the Chicago Southern district, and former pastor of the Grutzmacher family, assisted by Rev. Bohl at the Methodist church, when Miss Bernice Grutzmacher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emil A. Grutzmacher, Channel
Lake, became the bride of Byron
Corbin, son of Dr. and Mrs. B. J.
Corbin, of Cross Lake.

The bride was attended by Miss Miss Edna Lindner, Chicago, who was bridesmaid, and Lucille Hanke, maid of honor. The best man was Harold Sullivan, and ushers were Arthur
High of Naperville, and Rollo Grutz-macher, brother of the bride.

The bride was charmingly attired in a beautiful dress of white lace, with a train. The bridesmaid wore pink satin and the maid of honor wore green chiffon.

Mr. Jeffers sang two numbers, and the wedding march from "Lohengrin" was played. Nearly 150 were present at the church.

A reception followed at the home of the bride, about 100 being present. The young couple will leave for California for a honeymoon trip within a few weeks.

They will make their future home at Cross Lake, where Mr. Corbin is caretaker of his grandfather's estate.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Are Sin, Disease, and Death Real?" was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, October 12.

The Golden Text was, "Depart from evil, and do good; and dwell for evermore" (Psalms 37:27).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "For though we walk in the flesh, we do not war after the flesh: (For the weapons of our warfare are not carnal, but mighty through God to the pulling down of strong holds;) Casting down imaginations, and every high thing that exalteth itself against the knowledge of God, and bringing into captivity every thought to the obedience of Christ"
(II Cor. 10:3-5).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook,
"Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy:
"When the condition is present which you say induces disease, whether it be air, exercise, hereditary, contagion, or accident, then perform your office as porter and shut out these unhealthy thoughts and fears. Exclude from mortal mind the offending error; then the body cannot suffer from them" (p. 302).

SYNOPSIS

CHAPTER I—Renewing a childish attachment, Ernestine Bricefield, of a wealthy Chicago family, is tremendously attracted by Will Todd, youthful newspaper artist, son of a not particularly well-to-do carpenter. Her sister, Lillian, more of the conventional type, and aware of the attitude their father would take toward his daughter's marriage to an impetuous youth, begs Ernestine to end the affair, but the latter, capable of a passionate attachment, and realizing that in Will Todd she has found her affinity, refuses.

CHAPTER II—The love-making progresses swiftly, and finally, largely because of Ernestine's urging, they make a "runaway" marriage. Bricefield is infuriated but helpless, Ernestine being of age, and after a stormy scene the girl, with her husband, leaves her parents' home. Lillian, Hamilton, wealthy young lawyer, long Lillian's suitor, wins her consent to be his wife.

CHAPTER III—The bride night is spent at Will's home, and next day they begin their married life in a single room in a humble neighborhood. Ernestine realizes the difference her marriage has made in her social sphere, but, secure in her love, faces the future bravely.

Mrs. Bennett maintained a discreet silence, and Ernestine turned to the mirror over a chest of drawers and looked at her reflection, running her hands over her sleek soft hair. She was a little thinner than she had been when she was married, and her eyes were big and dark in the delicate whiteness of her face. She was lovely with a breath-taking quality, her face shining with an inner spiritual excitement. It seemed to her as she stared that she looked too happy, too thrilled for every-day use. She must learn to dissemble.

"Sometimes, darling," Mrs. Bennett chided Ernestine gently, "I think you fall to realize what an effect you have on the people here—the men. You are so different from the other girls these boys know. You bloom. You wear the face of love. It's hard on them. I want you to be very wise with Mr. Poole. It would be an easy thing for you to disrupt his friendship with Will. Will admires him, and his patronage means so much, just now."

"Will won't be jealous of any attention I pay to Mr. Poole, or that he pays to me," Ernestine said indifferently. "If that's what you mean. It won't hurt Mr. Poole to admire me. He's a nice old man, and he loves to admire women, and men, too, as far as that goes. It's part of his big heart. Will says. Anyhow, Will wouldn't be jealous of me—now." Her small face was so shining that Mrs. Bennett threw her advising instinct away with a gesture and came and kissed her young friend.

"Have a lovely time, darling," Pastano's has the distinction of being the very toughest place in all Chicago. It is beautiful, and not so dangerous as Mr. Pastano likes people to think. He is really very careful about the police. And then, too, you will be with Mr. Poole, who is a close friend of Ruby's.

Will was at the door, grinning at them, his mobile mouth twisted into a kind of sardonic look that he wore at times, and that made him like his father. He had a great deal of poise, Ernestine often thought, considering his youth and scanty advantages. Marriage had changed him very little. He was, perhaps, somewhat more inflammable, but he took Ernestine and the life with her most naturally and without self-consciousness.

They went on to Pastano's, entered an unmarked doorway and climbed broad wooden steps with double doors at the top which opened upon light, music, heat and the sound of happy voices.

The big room was airy, its excellent ventilation a surprise to Ernestine, and an important factor in every one's pleasure and good appetite. Mr. Poole came to meet them, and Ernestine gave him her hand and her nicest schoolgirl smile. She wished Mrs. Bennett had not said anything to her about this man. She did not have to heed any warnings except those her husband gave her!

Following Mr. Poole among the tables, Ernestine thought about the many things Will had told her of this man, until she felt that she knew him perfectly. His remarkable gifts, his value to his paper, his carelessness of himself, his small vanities and prejudices, his indolence and drunkenness and his great charm, she knew. He was as natural and straightforward with every one as a child with other children. Yet he possessed also the authority and autocratic manner of the man of established reputation. He drew Ernestine's hand within the curve of his arm, and led her to a table reserved for their party.

All the places were filled, except theirs, and the men rose to greet Ernestine. There was only one other woman; Mrs. Wiston, the wife of the syndicate editor of the Sun, a small beautiful woman with the face of a alien who can never forget her role. She had been married twice before she had met Wiston, and Ernestine knew that back in New England were the wife and child Wiston had set aside for her. Ernestine was conscious of the indignation common to married women against such an impostor.

Wiston himself, a tall academic man with a ribbon to his glasses, Ernestine had met at the office, and John Tucker, called Tommy by every one, who was Will's rival for honors in the art room. The third man who was presented to her Ernestine did not know and she failed to catch his name. He was a small powerful looking individual, with a dark mustache, bright gray eyes and a vain and elaborate manner. The other two men, Underwood and Harrison, were from the Sun staff, and happy to be at any party, any time, any place.

They all sat down, Mr. Poole with one of the women on either side, and Tommy Tucker next to Ernestine, the pompous little man next to Mrs. Wiston, with the others grouped about the big table. Ernestine by now had forgotten her self-consciousness and became radiant happy. She wished Will were beside her. She was only a half, and Will was the other half, and he ought always to be beside her, breathing as she breathed, turning as she turned. The idea delighted her, and she laughed at herself, but felt still a deep joy in their unity.

Mr. Poole turned to Ernestine and told her softly that her youth and beauty were sweeter than sweet night itself. He took his glass in his hand. "And more intoxicating," he said, "than this for which I have wasted half my life and most of my talents."

Ernestine, looking up in his kind face, knew instantly that in spite of his flowery words, and in spite of Mrs. Bennett's conventional fears, this great man had no predatory impulses toward her. He knew that she was deeply in love with Will. But to watch her, to speak to her, to listen to her voice, gave him pleasure. It was all he would ever want of her. Her instinct in this matter proved true, during the years of Will's association with Mr. Poole.

Public Service Co. Starts Erection of New Building

A new service headquarters, costing approximately $750,000 has recently been placed under construction by the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois, on a 53-acre tract owned by that company in the Skokie Valley between Northbrook and Glencoe, about a quarter of a mile south of Dundee road on the new Skokie Boulevard. This project will provide a centralized operating headquarters for the various departments of the company serving the north shore suburban territory. A two story building, to be completed next spring, covering about three acres of floor area, will house about 200 employees. The entire service headquarters, including the garages, shops, switch trucks and storage yards which are to be a part of the development will provide employment for upwards of 400 people, according to officials of the company. Garage facilities for 150 cars and a large employees' lunchroom are also a part of the plans. The expectations of the Public Service company for future development at this location are indicated by the acquisition of the large tract of land which is sufficient to provide headquarters eventually for as many as two thousand workers.

pieces of impudence been doing since last I saw you?"

"We have dined in state at mamma's," said Ernestine, smiling mischievously. "Will missed the significance of it entirely. Papa has, under duress, forgiven him. He offered Will a job in his office."

"And what does Will say?" "He didn't even pay any attention to it. He just said that he was satisfied with the job he had, thanks just the same, and went on talking to mamma."

Mr. Poole laughed with delight. "Doesn't he know what papa wants?" "I don't know whether he does or not. But anyhow, papa knows that now he has decided to forgive Will. Will doesn't intend to let it make any difference. Papa really would like to let us struggle along. He feels pretty disappointed in me. But mamma can't bear it. She is determined to take care of us, whether we will or no."

"But how can she, if Will does not change his employment?" Ernestine's face grew firm. "She can't. I won't let her. I've made up my mind to have nothing but what Will can give me. I don't mind being poor."

"You must resist poverty," Mr. Poole said. "It is the deadly enemy of marriage."

Ernestine's small face was scornful. Poverty was not so black as it was painted, she observed. He looked at her.

"You do not believe me? Wait, then, and see."

"But we are poor now. It's fun to be poor."

"You—poor!" His amazement was so genuine that Ernestine looked at him in surprise. "My darling child," he reasoned with her, "you don't know what the word means. You two—still in the flush of first love, without children, without a house to burden you, without a responsibility! One bed will do for both of you, one room will hold two hearts together. You are well, you are eager, you are fed and clothed and housed. You have a trunk full of pretty clothes, an adoring mamma begging to do things for you. You do not know the cold and odious breath of poverty at all. I could show you its dark face; slums, little children with great heads and emaciated bodies, houses held together by strings—shambles! I'll show you pale girls, and prostitution, and bare shelves, and empty cupboards, and pride bent double. Luck is a cruel witch. Pray that you may never know her."

"Yet you just told me to wait!" "Ah, but that was nonsense. Life will never be cruel to you."

They ate the excellent food put before them, and talked, the men arguing among themselves about a technically in some one's work, Will and Underwood and Mr. Wiston deep in it, Mr. Poole and Tommy compelling for Ernestine's attention. Presently Tommy was drawn into the men's talk, and Mr. Poole leaned close to Ernestine and became very confidential.

"Will tells me you are going to have a child. I think that is the last perfection. I always knew that he was gifted, but his marriage with you has established the certainty of his future. Such things are not accidents. He is the chosen of the gods, or one of their finest gifts would not be his. He has all the elements of success. And a wife and children will do the forging." Ernestine's cheeks burned. She could not understand how Will could have told his still precious secret to Mr. Poole. But she exercised great self-command to be quiet and responsive to him. He went on praising Will, and assuring her of the brightness of his future, until, after a little, she forgot her confusion and told him her own feelings about Will.

The party grew very gay, and Ernestine joined in the general happiness. Without warning the tight little man with the powerful shoulders was on his feet. He bowed to Ernestine, and he bowed around the room, and everywhere hands began to clap and there were shouts of joyous approval at sight of him.

TO HAUL WORLD'S FASTEST TRAIN

A "HUDSON TYPE" locomotive, series No. 5700, has been placed in service by the Canadian National Railways to haul the world's fastest train between Chicago and Montreal. To keep its schedule of 350 minutes for the 334 miles of this run between Montreal and Toronto, this locomotive will be required to operate frequently at a rate exceeding 80 miles per hour. This will not call for much effort as the driving wheels of this engine, the largest and speediest in Canada, are 80 inches in diameter. The locomotive with tender has an over-all length of 92 feet, 5 1/2 inches and weighs more than 331 tons. The tender will carry 20 tons of coal and 14,000 imperial gallons of water. The boiler pressure is 275 pounds and the tractive power, without the booster, is 43,300 pounds. With the booster another 10,000 pounds is added. Beauty in design has been accomplished by the concealment of practically all the piping above the running board and the polishing of the jacket. Five of these locomotives will be placed in service before the end of October.

LAKE VILLA HAS SANITARIUM FROM OLD JARVIS HOTEL

Teachers and Parents to Spend Social Evening at Church, Friday

The Jarvis hotel is being made into a sanitarium with a doctor and nurses in charge. Several patients are already being treated there. The old barn has been torn down and will be replaced by a modern garage.

A social evening will be spent with the teachers of our school and our neighboring schools as guests of honor Friday evening at the church. The public is cordially invited to attend. The younger married group will be in charge.

NASH Announces 3 new EIGHTS and a new SIX

NEVER was such motor car quality offered at prices so sensationally low. The literally startling difference becomes at once apparent when you contrast the prices of the new and finer Nash series, with prices of corresponding models a year ago.

Its low non-productive overhead, its elimination of borrowed capital, and remarkably foresighted manufacturing alone enable Nash to offer so much for so little.

The unique example in value-giving thus provided the industry was planned last November. At that time, C. W. Nash and the strong group of executives surrounding him, clearly foresaw present conditions. They at once began to design cars affording value so great, so unmistakable, as to overcome all buying reluctance.

The result is instantly apparent. Even casual inspection of the four new Nash cars establishes the fact that nothing even remotely approaching them in downright dollar value has ever been available in their respective price fields.

SENSATIONALLY PRICED!

STUDY THESE SENSATIONAL PRICES!
Compare what is probably the most remarkable achievement of Nash in greater value-giving—the New Six—with the Single Six it succeeds. The new Six offers a multitude of superiorities—at prices which range from $160 to $140 below the prices of the Single Six.
Body Style	The New Six W. B. 1144*	Last Year's Six W. B. 1144*	Price Difference
Sedan (4-door)	$845	$1005	—$160

Coupe (rumble seat)	$825	$980	—$155
Sedan (2-door)	$795	$935	—$140
Compare the New Eight-70 with its two additional cylinders, its longer wheelbase, its larger, more luxurious body, with the six-cylinder car it replaces. Then consider the remarkable fact that there is actually a basic price differential in favor of the New Eight!

My Trip With The Gold Star Mothers To France

BY MRS. MARY A. MANN

(Concluded)

The morning after seeing the Eiffel Tower, we bade farewell to our friends at the hotel, went by bus to the depot, and boarded the train for Cherbourg. We traveled over the had been very little rain, and the same route as we had two weeks previously. In that interval three country now appeared less attractive than it did then.

We reached Cherbourg and were promptly placed in a transport and taken out to deep water where the steamship, President Roosevelt was awaiting us. This ship, although not as large as the steamship, George Washington, could not have been excelled for comfort, convenience, fine food and service. This ship was painted in white ivory with rosewood and mahogany trimmings. The library was finished in lattice-work, in white, ivory, and gray. A comfortable settee in front of an artificial fireplace proved to be a very nice place to rest and reflect.

Everything was most homelike and restful, but many of the 257 mothers and widows were unable to enjoy these comforts, as, exhausted by the limit of endurance by the strenuous trip in France, they were more susceptible to sea-sickness, induced also by a lighter boat and a rougher sea. There were no storms, either on the trip to France or the return voyage.

The days passed serenely until a fire was discovered in the Isolation Hospital on Sunday morning, June 15th. Much to the relief of all aboard, the fire was soon extinguished by the blaze.

Just before reaching New York Harbor, the ship became stuck on a sandbar about 15 miles out, but were Saturday, for the Wisconsin-Chicago game.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Forster and family returned the first of the week from a motor trip through Illinois and Indiana. Sunday, they were dinner guests of relatives at Twin Lakes.

U. F. H. School

The next meeting of the Blue Ribbon 4-H club will be on Tuesday, October 21. All record books are due at that time.

An organization of the Parent-Teachers association was held at the gymnasium Tuesday night.

Finally pulled out by several tugs which arrived to relieve us of this inconvenience. Four hours later we landed and were taken to the Hotel McAlpin, hot, tired, and hungry.

After being assigned to a fine modern room and given an opportunity to bathe and refresh ourselves, we were ready for a sight-seeing trip in the evening.

We were ferried to Jersey City on the following day, June 19th, and began our homeward "lap" over the B. and O. railroad. We rode from Jersey City to Washington, D. C. in a parlor car, and at Washington we were transferred to one of the finest Pullman coaches.

I reached Chicago at 2:10 on the afternoon of June 20th. After waiting several hours, my train left for Antioch at 5:15. The day was very hot, resulting in my feeling fatigued, but no one can realize how much better I felt when I saw so many at the depot, awaiting the arrival of my train.

Thus ended one of the finest events of my life.

One of the blessings for which I may be most thankful on this trip, is the fact that my health was excellent throughout both voyages, all the excursions.

This pilgrimage so nobly planned by Secretary of State, Stimson, and so ably carried out by the United States government, and courteously conducted by the officers in charge, stands out as one of the greatest achievements of our Nation.

I extend my deepest and most heartfelt thanks to all who made it possible to stand in silence and alone at the grave of my beloved son, Willard J. Mann, whose life was one

Grade School Baseball Team Twice Victorious

(Last week's Grade School Notes)

The Antioch Grade School Baseball team is good, when they play hard ball. They defeated Grayslake here Friday after a tough scrap by a score of 6-5. When they returned Grayslake's visit Monday, they also copped the honors, by another tight game, by a score of 11-10. John Koukal is the star pitcher, and Arthur Merrill, the catcher.

Several of the teachers, Mrs. Lux, Miss Wilson, Miss Touton, Miss Stricker, and Miss Harwood attended the Teachers' meeting held at Libertyville Saturday by T. A. Simpson, County Superintendent of Schools.

In Miss Touton's room, the second grade are making a special study of their health work this week, the points most stressed being the care of the teeth, personal appearance, and the building up of underweight children.

Every month a prize of $3.00 is given to the room having the greatest percentage of parents present at the P. T. A. meetings, and it was won this time by the second grade. The money is used to buy books.

The poem entitled "Wlato" by Robert Mortenson was quite appropriate for last week, but must make way now for its milder brother, "Autumn", which was written by Reva Slinger, a student in the sixth grade.

AUTUMN

It is early in the autumn,
That the secret goes around,
The birds have now gone south
And the leaves are on the ground.
The apples now are rosy,
And the flowers all turned in.
Oh! It's been a grand summer, a
lovely summer,
For the birds and their kin.

'Twas getting into in autumn,
That the secret spread anew,
The rabbit's in his burrow,
And he's laughing hard at you.
The peaches now are golden,
And the pears are getting yellow,
Oh! It's been a grand summer, a
lovely summer,
When the evening's soft and mellow.

'Tis autumn yet, you know,
And almost time to snow,
The children get their sleds out,
And down the hill they go.
The trees are brown and bare now,
The leaves have blown away,
Oh! Hasn't it been a grand autumn,
a lovely autumn,
When fence posts are bare and gray?

The Lure of the Younger Woman

FOR ten years Eleanor and her husband, Albert, had lived happily together. Even now, at middle age, they were still sweethearts. Then into their lives came Erva, a pretty orphan girl—half Gypsy, half English. They adopted her, loved her like a daughter.

Gradually, as Erva blossomed into a beautiful woman, Eleanor sensed a subtle change in her husband's regard for the girl. With aching heart she realized that Albert and Erva were falling in love with each other. Yet neither realized the misery and unhappiness that would result.

What could Eleanor do? What would you do in her place? What could any woman do?

What actually did happen makes one of the most engrossing stories that was ever lived. It is published complete in the November issue of True Story, now on the newsstands. Entitled "The Girl We Took in," it is told by Eleanor, the woman who had to sit by while the lure of a younger woman stole into her husband's heart. A lively tale of human emotions that will hold you enthralled. Don't miss it!

Behind the Scenes of Life
In the pages of True Story Magazine you see at work the love, the hate, the passion, all of the impulses that actuate humans in their contacts with others. For True Story is written by its readers from their own experiences. The characters are genuine, not fictional imitations, and you enjoy them double for that knowledge.

$5,000.00 True Story Contest
Each month True Story awards $5,000 in cash, in prizes ranging from $2,000 downward, for stories that you yourself can write. Probably you have thought of a story you would like to tell. Why not put it on paper and send it in? Full particulars in every issue of the magazine.

Three Unusual Vegetable Recipes

By ETIENNE ALLIO, Chef, Hotel New Yorker, New York City

MANY housewives have been preparing their vegetable dishes in the same way for so many years that it seems to them almost like sacrilege to suggest that the same vegetables prepared in different ways might be heartily welcomed by the family as delightful variations from the ordinary routine.

While the family may have been well trained to eat the dishes offered them without comment unless it is a favorite one, the wise housewife will never, while so many new recipes are readily available, allow herself to run the danger of a sudden family revolt. Her natural pride in her skill in the culinary art will lead her to seek variety, both for the sake of her own reputation and the pleasure her family will take in the appetizing results of her well planned meals.

Spinach au Gratin—Clean, wash and steam two quarts of spinach. Drain and press through colander. Add one tablespoon butter, one and a half cups fairly thick white sauce, one-half teaspoon salt, and one-half teaspoon sugar. Mix thoroughly and place in buttered glass baking dish. Sprinkle with two-thirds cup grated cheese and bake in hot oven for twenty minutes.

Onions Arragonaise—Melt one-third cup butter in a saucepan. Add two cups peeled, small onions, pressing down firmly. Sprinkle over top one scant teaspoon salt, one-fourth teaspoon pepper, and one-fourth teaspoon sugar. Shake until seasonings are well distributed. Add enough chicken stock to cover. Cover saucepan and simmer until onions are tender. Remove cover and boil rapidly until liquid is reduced to about one-fourth. Butter squares of toast, sprinkle cheese over them, then pour over them the onions. Place in hot oven to brown.

Parasol and Tomato Scallop—Slice and saute in one tablespoon butter, one medium-size onion. When golden brown, add two cups stewed tomatoes, one and a half teaspoons salt, one-fourth teaspoon pepper, two or three cloves, pinch of cayenne, and one teaspoon sugar. Simmer until smooth. Have ready three cups of sliced, cooked parsnips. Grease a shallow baking dish and place in it a layer of the parsnips. Add a layer of tomato, then a layer of parsnips, continuing this until all the ingredients are used, being sure that a layer of parsnips is on top. Sprinkle with three tablespoons grated cheese mixed with one-fourth cup bread crumbs. Brown in hot oven.

ANTIOCH'S COUNTRY FAIR IS PRONOUNCED A SUCCESS

ers' Association from Lake County competed for honors with their calves, pigs and sheep. Lloyd Barnstable of Lake Villa, won the grand championship with his Guernsey senior heifer. Howard Schneider, also of Lake Villa, won the grand championship with his Poland in the Swine Division, and Chas. Dooley of Grange, took the championship in the Sheep classes.

The commercial exhibits were unusually large this year, occupying over 200 frontage feet. They were attractively housed in neat booths furnished by the Central States Exposition company of Kenosha, Wis.

Splendid Response from Schools—The schools of Lake county that had displays, numbered fifteen, and their displays were a credit to the fair association, for their attractiveness appealed to the many visitors. The Educational Department was under the supervision of W. C. Petty, who expressed himself as being much pleased with the number of schools entering exhibits and the high type of work displayed. The winners are listed in order:

One Room Schools—Hickory, Oakland, Emmos, Stearns, Stafford, Neat Newport, Grubb, More than One Room Schools—Garnee, Grayslake, Antioch, Lake Villa, Allendale, Fox Lake.

High Schools—Antioch, Warren, R. S. Ihlenfeldt, Supt. of Kenosha county schools, who judged the exhibits, stressed the following things in choosing the winners: originality, number of grades represented, variety of exhibits, especially in their every-day work, and attractiveness. For these reasons Hickory was placed first, and Oakland and Emmos tied, the latter two having less variety than Hickory. The judge remarked that Grubb, although not in a position to compete with the larger schools, because of its few pupils, displayed some excellent work.

Garnee was given first in the more than one room schools because of the above requirements, and for the fine record work and character development indicated. Antioch was merited second for its originality and Grayslake for its attractiveness.

Both High schools displayed very fine work, Antioch's manual training exhibits and Warren's representation of rural life being outstanding.

Allendale Band Plays—A very fine concert by the Allendale Farm boys' band was the main attraction at the fair grounds Friday night. Known throughout northern Illinois as one of the finest juvenile musical organizations, the band lived up to their reputation here Friday night, playing many difficult classical selections that would do credit to older and more seasoned musicians. The concert was well received, and the boys got a good hand for their efforts to please.

Candidates Attend—The fair was not without its political high-lights, although no political speakers were included on the program. Nevertheless, the fair crowd was honored by a visit by prominent state and county candidates Friday when the Republican delegation making the rounds of Lake county called at the grounds where several speeches were made.

Saturday night the Democrats held sway for a brief spell while James Welch, former Lake county prosecutor, told voters why he deserted the Republican party to join the ranks of the Democrats. Until recently Attorney Welch was a candidate for circuit judge but withdrew from the contest when it was learned he was late in filing his petition and his name would have to be written in on the ballot by the voters.

Fair Management Hopeful—It is the opinion of many who are in close touch with the workings of the Antioch-Lake Villa Poultry and Country Fair association that next year it will be necessary to find larger facilities or use large tents to house the exhibits.

There was splendid co-operation on the part of the several superintendents and the exhibitors, according to President Harold D. Minto and Secretary C. L. Kuttel, and all officials feel very grateful to the public for the splendid support given them in their effort to make the first community fair the success it proved to be.
